Bolshevism Here.
Who's Our Richest Man?
Flying for Everybody.
A Baby in Radical Land.

By ARTHUR BRISBANE.

(Copyright, 1929, by King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

AN airplane, started from Russia, landed Saturday on extreme northwestern American territory, bound for New York.
Instead of crashing, as any pious anti-Bolshevist would expect it to do, the plane flew admirably from Russia over Bering Straits, sailing along at 110 miles.

IT'S a flight that might interest our boy bankers that stupidly bought Russian bonds from the Czar and Kerensky.

If Bolshevism can send expert fliers from Moscow to Wall street, Wall street might tell our government, "Better build plenty of airplanes to be ready for those Russians."

SECRETARY MELLON says:
"Business Opportunities for young men today are ten times better than when I began my career." In that case, opportunities must now be excellent.
Mr. Mellon, whose wealth rolls up like a snowball, with little effort from him, while he works for $12,000 a year, was called "second richest man in the world" by President Harding, when appointed.

MR. MELLON is one of several billionaires, in this nation. Which of four, Rockefeller, George F.
Baker, Henry Ford or Mellon, has most money is uncertain. Not one of them knows, and it is not important. They put the money back into industry, not spending it on racetracks or foreign dissipation.

JOHN D. ROCKEFELLER would probably be richest, had he kept the seven hundred and fifty millions he has given away to education, science, health crusades, etc.
Put out at compound interest, Mr.
Rockefeller's gifts would amount now to two billions, all by themselves.

UNIVERSAL flying is not far away.

Col. Lindbergh starts a 7,000-mile flight with his wife.
That is taken for granted.
The Duchess of Bedford, past 60, flies from England to India and back "for amusement."

A FEW days ago, Miss Charles Cary Rumsey, daughter of the late E. H. Harriman, flew off from a Long Island field in a "two-seater" with her 18-year-old son for pilot.

A LITTLE later on the same day, a plane landed near Mineola, bringing two young girls, Hope and Carol Gimbel, with their mother. The girls were to exhibit their horses in a class for jumpers.
They won first and second prizes, respectively, and flew back to their father's country house near Port Chester, N. Y.

THAT flight to and fro, taken as a matter of course by two twin girls and their mother, shows how airplanes will save time.

They left their house in Port Chester at 2:55 p. m., reached the Armonk Flying Field five minutes later, flew across Westchester and Long Island Sound, landing near the Mineola horse show.

Thirty-five minutes after they left their front door they exhibited their jumping horses and were home for an early dinner.
Whatever saves time lengthens life. It is what we do, not how long we live, that counts.

Get an airplane and fly if you can. But while waiting for the plane, don't be without an automobile and a good one.

MR. MEBEL, a lawyer, admits he took his wife's eight-month-old baby from its carriage, and carried it off. His wife had left him, and he told the judge

Probably the most tragic ac-umbus yesterday morning when two 13-year-old newsboys, Walter Mathis and Leo Provins, were run down and killed by a hit-and-run motorist, who made good an escape.

The one airplane death recorded occurred near Dayton when Lieunati, was injured fatally when he was run down by a truck in that city.

A four-year-old boy was killed and 12 persons were injured in Dayton's week-end auto traffic.
The dead lad is Kenneth Brewster. He met death when he stepped into the path of an auto.

Frank Lindman of Lancaster, while touring near Newark, ran down and killed Ray Bailey, 6-year-old boy. Lindman was not held by police.

William Crawford, 43, was crushed to death at Bridgeport on the Ohio river when he walked in front of a street car, on his way home from a ball game.

Armless Man Killed.
An armless man, Elmer Atkinson, 70, was run down and killed by an autoist on the National highway near Cambridge. Another accident in that locality proved fatal to James McClain, 29, a motocyclist.

When her father's truck overturned near Dover, 3-year-old Ruth Burhage was crushed to death.

William Griffith, 35, of Mansfield, was killed by a train at Ceylon, 10 miles east of Sandusky.

his home when an automobile full of gangsters stopped at the curb.

Relief for an hour—OR NEW STOMACH HEALTH

Thousands of stomach sufferers, former habitual users of makeshift remedies, such as soda, magnesia, tablets, and the like, have found in ZINSEP Compound a new and more permanent relief. The reason for this is, that ZINSEP Compound is a corrective, not just a digestant or temporary ease, like most remedies. It is a complete stomach treatment, possessing all the qualities of an Antacid, Gas Eliminator, Stomachic, Carminative, Gastric Sedative, Intestinal Antispasmodic and gentle laxative. That's why physicians prescribe it and druggists recommend it.

ZINSEP Compound corrects the condition that causes the trouble, and thus gives Nature a chance to restore normal health to your stomach. You can't obtain this benefit from common digestive aids—they just don't work that way.

A faithful course of ZINSEP Compound will prove a surprise to you in permanent stomach relief. Just try it. Your money back if it fails to benefit you.

MOST mothers are busy—so are their daughters away at school. But once a week they can find a few minutes to get together by telephone for a comfortable, personal visit.

Modern telephone service brings campus and home together instantly. When you call by number, the call is completed in less than a minute. The cost is surprisingly low—less than a cent a mile.

The conversation is just as clear as a local call. Arrange with your daughter today, for a weekly telephone visit. It will keep you close together during the entire school year.

CALL BY NUMBER

If more convenient, have your daughter call you from school. She can reach you quickly when she calls by number—often in less than a minute. The call can be charged to your home telephone.

THE OHIO BELL TELEPHONE COMPANY

UNCLE POM

By Henry C. Rowland

A sparkling, swift-moving mystery romance.

SYNOPSIS.

Pomery Penfold, a wealthy American widower nearing fifty, loves to travel and visit friends. When the story opens he is a guest at the chateau of his sister, Alicia, and her husband, the Comte de Rennece. He is disturbed by the sight of an intruder—a man in yachting costume—who appears on the estate, and starts rudely at Maia, the count's lovely twenty-year-old daughter by a first marriage. Maia admits having met the man in America, and says his name is Capt. Seagrave.

That afternoon Kirby Colton, handsome scapegrace son of an American bishop, an old friend of the Penfold family, calls at the chateau unexpectedly, and is invited by the count to spend the night. He, too, has met Maia in America.

The count surprises Uncle Pom by telling him Maia loves him, and indicating the marriage would please him. Maia overhears them and confirms her father's remarks. Later she confesses that both Seagrave and Colton are erstwhile suitors. Knowing the two hate each other, Uncle Pom fears a clash, and goes in search of Kirby. He is attacked from behind, knocked unconscious, and robbed of a belt containing priceless diamonds. That night a prowler in his room tries to choke him, then escapes. Maia suspects Seagrave of both attacks—he is always in financial difficulties—but Kirby astonishes every one by offering an alibi for his rival. And he confides in Uncle Pom that he has come to borrow one thousand dollars to save an innocent girl from trouble. Penfold gives him the money. Maia shows her contempt when she sees him accept the checks.

INSTALLMENT XIII.

Seagrave Comes With Threats. Maia raised her fine shoulders, made a hopeless little gesture, then turned and walked back into the house. Kirby picked up the checks and put them in his pocket-book. He did not speak, nor did he look at Mr. Penfold. A car had entered the grounds but none of the three had noticed it in their preoccupation.

Old Anatole came out on the terrace and said, "M'sieu, the Capitaine Seagrave asks to see 'M'sieu Penfold."

Kirby, said, impulsively, "Don't see him, sir. It can't do any good. I think he's here to make a touch. His yacht is held in libel for one hundred and fifty-odd pounds. He paid his store bills in Southampton with a couple of bum checks and the lack of his topsail." They cabbed the libel to French ports. It's pretty certain he will try to work you for a loan on Clive Pierpont's account."

"Then it will be a wasted effort," Mr. Penfold said. "I don't share Clive's indulgence for war heroes who have since gone in for graft."

"All the same, please don't see him, sir," Kirby begged earnestly. "There's more trouble behind it than I can explain at this moment."

"For you?" Kirby seemed to hesitate. "Well—yes. Pretty awful trouble at that."

"Then I'm afraid you'll have to trust to my judgment and indulgence, Kirby," Mr. Penfold said, coldly. "It isn't the first time."

"Then may I speak to him first, sir?"

"No. You may stand by though. Not here, because I want to hear what he has to say alone. If he makes any charges against you, I'll give you a chance to answer it before him. I'm fairly well acquainted with this type of opportunist."

Kirby stood irresolute. His hard mocking air of a few minutes before was stripped from him. He looked, Mr. Penfold thought, more like a scared schoolboy than a finished flaneur. "Well, then, if you insist, sir, prepare yourself for a hard job. I can guess what he's here for, and it's not all graft. But, please, please don't let him know that I've alibied him about your being knocked out and robbed."

"A little late for you to talk back on that line of defense, isn't it?" Mr. Penfold asked, coldly. Kirby's sudden loss of nerve was a new aspect and one that disgusted Mr. Penfold more than any of his many past shameful acts. "But, of course, you hadn't counted on this frontal attack of Seagrave's. At least he seems to be a cool hand."

The slight emphasis on the pronoun acted like a tonic on Kirby. He stiffened up and with a curt, "As you like, sir," walked away. Mr. Penfold said to Anatole, "Please show Capt. Seagrave here."

A moment later Seagrave came out on the terrace. Glancing at him without rising, Mr. Penfold was forced to admit he was a clean cut, handsome, and even distinguished looking adventurer. He looked less a sailor than army officer in a hard campaign, this impression enhanced by his lean, weathered face that had two faint scars of sword cuts, one diagonally across the forehead, the other on a cheek bone. His physique was trim, powerful and lithe. A gamecock of a man, whatever his dunghill qualities lay in a pair of eyes as cold and pale and piercing as those of a quacking osprey.

Seagrave made a slight bow, stiffly, from the hips. "Sorry to disturb you, sir. Hadn't heard that you'd met with an accident."

"Indeed?" Mr. Penfold's tone was dry. "Sit down. You must have been near the site of my accident when it occurred."

"Really? Down there on the beach?"

"A little later, and farther down the shore. Where you were talking to Colton just before he came up to the house. I went to look for him but took the wrong lane."

"What happened you?" Seagrave asked.

"I was knocked senseless and robbed," Mr. Penfold focused all his power of observation on Seagrave's eyes as he made this brief statement.

"My word! You don't tell me." The words and tone conveyed the amount of surprise to be expected on the part of a man who had no doubt witnessed his full quota of violence. But one might as well have looked for emotion in the light eyes of a seagull in a cage. "Now who could have done that? And robbed, you say? Of what?"

Some jewels that were to be a present to my fiancée, Mlle. de Rennece."

"Well," said Seagrave, bluntly, "I hope I am not a suspect. By gad, though, I believe I am, else why would a Johnny have been detailed to keep a weather eye on me? I've been wondering about that. It seemed to me that with a libel on the yacht all they needed was to take care I didn't slip my cable, up stick and away, but no sense in tagging me around ashore."

"You might as well know," said Mr. Penfold, "that you are under grave suspicion. Not only for the assault and robbery of myself on the shore but for entering this house last night with felonious intent."

Seagrave looked more amused than startled. "O, come," he protested. "Surely nobody believes I've got quite down to that sort of thing."

"There is a pretty strong case against you," Mr. Penfold said, coldly. "First, you come here by the shore instead of by the front gate and loiter about and intercept Mlle. de Rennece. Then when she has told you that you have nothing to expect from her, you continue to loiter and are seen talking to Colton near the spot where I was struck down and robbed. You are known to be desperately hard up and to have given worthless checks to clear your vessel which is reported to be here."

and is now held in libel. When my room was entered last night and I was grabbed and throttled and locked up in a closet from which I broke out in time to see a man making off in the direction of the shore."

Seagrave stared at him fixedly. "Well, it does look thick, I must admit. Worst of it is, I can't prove an alibi because at about the time of this first attack on you on the shore I must have been walking down the beach to where I left my motor dinghy, near an old ruin. What's going to be done about it?"

He shot out the question not anxiously but with a sort of challenge that roused Mr. Penfold's anger.

"It's up to me to make the charges against you. Frankly, I believe you to be guilty."

"Can't say I blame you much," Seagrave answered coolly, "though as a matter of fact, I'm not. Merely a victim of strong circumstantial evidence."

"In France," said Mr. Penfold, "criminal procedure throws the onus of the charge on the accused and requires that he prove himself innocent beyond all reasonable doubt."

Seagrave smiled. "Then it looks as if I were sunk," he said.

"There's a way out, Seagrave. You will tell me here, unofficially, precisely what happened, and return the jewels. I will make no charge and the case against you will be dismissed."

"I can't very well do that," said Seagrave, "because it so happens that I didn't lay you out and I haven't got the bally jewels. If I had, I wouldn't be here now."

"Then it looks like a stalemate," said Mr. Penfold. "About what did you come to see me?" (Copyright, 1929, By Henry C. Rowland.) (Continued tomorrow.)

When "Rio Rita" was produced last season for the 40-week tour, it was necessary to secure a donkey for the entrance of Jimmie Lee, who plays the glib and facile lawyer, Ed Lovett, in this "musical romance of the Rio Grande," coming to the Ceramic theater Wednesday night. Both New York and Brooklyn were scoured thoroughly, but it was found that whatever donkeys there were in the marts were too large. Finally one was discovered in Patterson, N. J., and was brought to New York for the rehearsals. His name is "Bingo," and he is a good donkey. He has never missed a performance, nor missed a cue. He has never acted "upstage," except that one night recently he deliberately laid down on his entrance and left Lee in the lurch.

"Bingo" wears a world-weary, philosophical look in his sophisticated eyes, and sometimes he conveys the impression that he knows what it's all about, and perhaps he really has something up his sleeve, although he has been on his strict good behavior ever since the late contretemps.

film sweetheart. The succeeding misunderstandings and events are readily imagined.

It is all out-and-out farce—the kind of plot that MacLean is most at home in. He doesn't miss a chance to put over his inimitable pantomime. Marie Prevost and Johnny Arthur are the mainstays of the support, and Miss Lee, Duffy and Miss Farley, all veterans of the art of farce comedy, also provide acting of great merit.

A pleasing feature of the plot is that divorce is merely a means for comedy and is never taken seriously. Of course the plotters fail to get their divorce and the whole tangle is ironed out with three couples happily embraced at the finish.

In addition, a Fox Movietone feature showing Sidney Franklin, famous bullfighter, thrilling crowds in the Santander, Spain, arena, is on the bill.

Convincing Test for Radio Tone and Reception Ever Made

At 12:11 midnight, May 4th last, using the facilities of Station WABC in New York City, before an audience of great artists, eminent radio authorities and skeptical newspaper men, Brunswick made the most dramatic and convincing Test ever conceived to prove "Studio Quality" Radio Reception.

Every Brunswick Dealer is equipped to reproduce this test, with all its drama, with all its romance, right in his own store. It constitutes a demonstration that no other Radio has ever attempted.

You will hear great artists broadcast just as though you had been in the studio of Station WABC, and, at the same time, you will be able to listen to the identical program as it was received through a stock model of the NEW Brunswick Radio, miles away.

This test proves that Brunswick has created a new standard, a new conception of Radio Reception which outstanding authorities have termed "Studio Quality" Radio Reception.

This means that the Reception quality of the NEW Brunswick Radio is so perfect that you, as a listener-in, are literally transported to the studio from which the program is being broadcast. You hear the artists as though you were actually in the Broadcasting Studio—the elaborate apparatus that makes broadcasting and reception possible does not seem to intervene.

Tonight at 7:30 o'clock over KDKA
Brunswick Brevities goes on the air.

The featured artist will be BEN BERNIE—the torch-bearer of modern syncopation—the most colorful of directors—a master of the violin—a sensation wherever he and his Hotel Roosevelt Orchestra appear. Tune in and listen to radio's most attractive entertainment.

Gallstone Troubles Explained

Kansas City Doctor Gives Good Advice to Sufferers From Gallstones of the Liver

Gallstone sufferers, especially those whose suffering has about driven them to an operation will welcome the joyous news that a large percentage of cases of this painful, health destroying disease may now be successfully treated without surgery.

To Dr. E. E. Paddock, a Kansas City physician, who for 30 years has specialized in the treatment of diseases of the gall bladder, gall ducts and the liver, belongs the credit for a remarkable home medical treatment that sufferers the country over declare has brought relief and has made hundreds of operations unnecessary.

According to Dr. Paddock, surgery is resorted to in many cases where medical treatment would be effective. It is Dr. Paddock's claim the knife should be used only in emergency cases, and that surgery removes only the effect—the cause remaining—unless medical treatment is taken to correct the trouble. Dr. Paddock is a strong advocate of the use of medicines to escape the necessity and danger of an operation. His book fully explains his method of treatment and offers convincing evidence of its efficiency.

Anyone who is afflicted or who is suspicious of any catarrhal inflammation and infection of the gall bladder or gall ducts associated with gallstones of the liver, should send for Dr. Paddock's booklet, "The Liver and Gall Bladder." A copy will be sent free and postpaid to any who request it. In this booklet the Doctor tells the story of his long experience in treating catarrhal conditions associated with gallstones of the liver with medicine. He explains the symptoms by which the disease may be recognized before it reaches an acute stage—and why these symptoms, unheeded, may cause indescribable suffering and ill health. Just fill in and mail the coupon below and the booklet will be sent free and without any obligation whatsoever. Send for it today.

BETWEEN YOU AND ME

BY JOAN.

Another surprise! A gas range that doesn't look a bit like a cooking appliance. What next? If you'll just look in the Frank Creek Co.'s display window, you will find your answer. There stands Magic Chef, the aristocrat of modern gas ranges—possessing all the elegance of a fine piece of living room furniture. Authorities on interior decorating have pronounced it the most notable style creation in house furnishings in the decade. It's all of that and more. You'll want to be among the first to examine it because it's totally different from any range you've ever seen. In addition to its artistic perfection, it possesses the famous Red Wheel and many other exclusive service features that make it an unusually efficient cooking appliance. Don't be satisfied with a "peep" in the window. You're invited to come inside—become acquainted with the Magic Chef and ask questions to your hearts content.

Far be it from me to be an alarmist, but I pass along this bit of warning that I gathered from a very reliable source a few minutes ago. Here it is: September is the month of tornadoes. Now who was counting on a shock like this? Folks are wise who "count" probabilities such as tornadoes and hurricanes. They realize that only windstorm insurance will protect them from loss when furious winds damage or destroy their property. An expensive repair bill can easily be provided for, by a policy of windstorm insurance and the Lee C. Cooper Agency will provide such at a rate so low you'll never miss it.

Crime waves may come and go in the cities but they're always on the go, in the home. There, invisible bandits of a microscopic world are out preying every second of the day and the "police" force that curbs their activities is made up of none other than the homemaker. The careful preservation of food is her responsibility. In this, her chief ally is Fridgidaire—ever careful to prevent the development of bacteria and always maintaining the same constant temperature. The importance of proper refrigeration is being stressed by health authorities everywhere. Your family's health depends greatly on it. You'll be enthusiastic about the new Fridgidaire. Don't say you can't afford one 'til you've visited the "Crockery and Ice & Produce" Co. and inquired about their convenient payment plan.

We just couldn't describe Lemmer's transparent velvet dresses and ensembles in detail. We tried to single out several to briefly sketch for you but there were so many "powerful" ones we got all confused and gave up trying. Anyhow you can't know by this time how really lovely they are. If you haven't seen them, you friends have told you about them. They are featured of elegant velvets in the richest browns and blues. There are the figured ones in the most heavenly colors and any number of stunning blacks. For another thing, you will be delighted with the collar treatments of exquisite lace and the wisps of beige and flesh chiffon which accompany some of them. Next time I'll have to tell you about their very smart line of coats for the "Sweet Sixteen" Misses. For Misses of any age and their varied collection of women's coats—but you'd rather see for yourself. I don't blame you. It's a real style show.

'Twas the clever pockets on these Nellie Don smocks at Ogilvie's that attracted our attention. Black, cleverly cut affairs that when left open add a bizarre touch to the figured background. These are dressy smocks. Smocks cunningly designed in brightly hued materials; and they certainly will capture the hearts of school teachers and business women and we shan't bar the housekeepers, if you please. Guess they like to look nice too. We examined the prices as any eagle-eyed detective might be expected to do and report they are not the least prohibitive.

What is charm? Barrie says "It's a sort of bloom on a woman. If you have it you don't need to have anything else." Those of us who haven't it know we can find it at the Stern Beauty Shoppe. It's in their Marinello facials that leave faces as soft as rose petals; in their gentle massage that irons out the wrinkles, rounds out hollowing chins and strengthens sagging muscles; in their scalp treatments that give new lustre and vitality to the hair and last but not least in their permanent waves. The beauticians at Stern's will help you find this thing called charm. Adv.

How a Family Doctor made Millions of Friends

FIFTEEN years after his graduation, Dr. Caldwell became one of the best-known members of his profession. A single prescription made him famous. And for forty years it has continued to make friends.

As fast as people could tell there about the marvelous way his prescription corrects constipation and relieves other troubles caused by sluggish bowels, demand for it spread until Dr. Caldwell was forced to have it filled in quantities; bottled and distributed through drug stores.

Today, Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, as it is called, is the world's most popular laxative. Millions of people would never think of using anything else when they're headachy, bilious, feverish, or weak; when breath is bad, tongue is coated or they are suffering from nausea, from gas, or lack of appetite, etc. Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin as you buy it from your drug store is made in accordance with the original formula from only herbs and other pure ingredients. It is pleasant tasting; its action is thorough in the most obstinate cases; gently effective for women and children. Above all, it represents a doctor's choice of what is safe for the bowels.

KERNAHAN VISITATION CAMPAIGN DISCUSSED IN CHURCHES

DRIVE OPENS IN CITY ON NEXT SUNDAY

Rev. Dr. Hawkins Begins Third Year in Pastorate.

SURVEY SLATED

Sermons Delivered in Other Pulpits Yesterday.

The Rev. J. W. Lawther, D. D., pastor of the First Presbyterian church, who is the ministerial chairman of the campaign here, discussed the Kernahan visitation at the evening service yesterday. Announcement was made by him that Dr. Kernahan would be present at a joint meeting of all of the workers of the various churches taking part on next Saturday afternoon.

We emphasize the necessity of sending many out to present Christ and the importance of an intimate and unprejudiced approach to the people we want to win," writes Dr. Kernahan. "There are certain persons that a pastor could not live in a 50-year pastorate."

Religious Education Discussed. To put on Christ, walk with Him, trust Him fully and enter into communion with Him is the out-look that comes to the human soul who by the individual inventory of an inward examination looks upward and not downward, asserted the Rev. W. H. Baker, pastor, at the First Church of Christ yesterday morning. His subject was "A Look in Four Directions."

He was preceded for a brief interim by W. C. Hultz, of East Liverpool, who spoke on the theme "Religious Education in Our Public Schools." He noted the accomplishments of Biblical study among the youth of the city by such approach as getting scriptural knowledge which they in no other manner previously had.

"Though only the fourth and fifth grades are thus given Biblical study, the hope is strong by proponents of the departure that in time others will have the same opportunity," he declared. "And the cost so far has been but $1.52 for each pupil during the entire year taught which would mean about four cents a lesson."

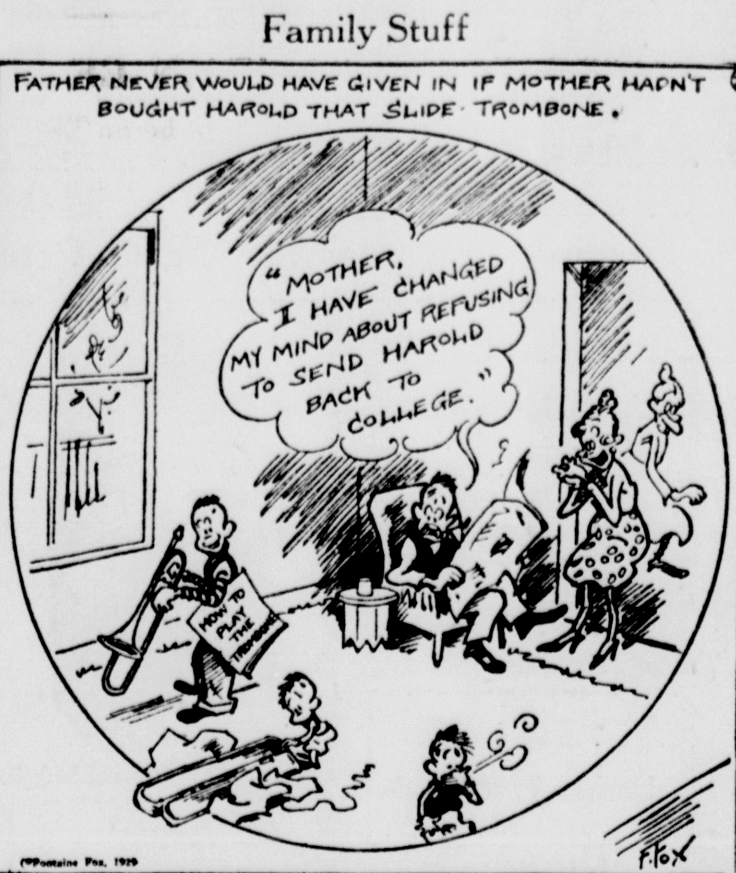

Hultz was one of a number of men who presented the status of Bible study in East Liverpool schools to various congregations during the day.

Regret was expressed by the Rev. Mr. Baker over the inability of the Rev. B. R. Johnson, former pastor of the church, to fill the pulpit at one of the meetings yesterday. He is temporarily in Ohio to attend and preach the funeral sermon over the body of his wife's brother who died a few days ago. He said also that because of the need to be with his mother-in-law under the circumstances he was unable also to speak to his other former congregation at Wellsville.

Announcement was made of the coming to the First Church of Christ on Tuesday night of the Rev. Dr. E. P. Wise, of North Canton, another former pastor, who will deliver a lecture on "Trekking Through Palestine."

Methodist Episcopal.

The Rev. Dr. Warren O. Hawkins, pastor of the First Methodist Episcopal church, alluded to this tendency yesterday morning as he began his third year of ministry here. "One has to go away from home

MAYOR TO O. K. TRAIN SPEED

Railroad Ordinance Published Saturday By Mistake.

Ordinance which fixes the speed limit for trains over the Pennsylvania railroad through East Liverpool at 35 miles an hour, will probably receive his signature tomorrow, Mayor Ralph C. Benedum announced today.

"I received a number of requests over the week-end requesting that I approve the measure," the mayor said. "I have received but one objection to the proposed legislation."

The measure which repeals the ordinance fixing the speed limit of trains at six miles an hour, was published Saturday for the first time, although Mayor Benedum had not acted upon the measure. Thinking that the mayor had signed the measure, the ordinance was turned in for publication with other legislation adopted at last Monday night's meeting of council.

To find out facts immediately at his front door almost," he declared. "At the conclusion of my sermon in the First Baptist church at Cambridge, last Sunday night, I was asked if I had met the same first family from that vicinity in East Liverpool. And though they had attended some of the services in this church I learned they had been living just a couple of squares away from my own home for six months. Such a survey is absolutely needful and will be rich in results."

First United Presbyterian. Utilizing two words, "What" and "Now" as his subjects the Rev. L. J. Davison, pastor of the First United Presbyterian church, West Sixth and Jefferson streets, yesterday explained the merits of the Kernahan evangelistic campaign which will begin here next Sunday. Having spoken on the same theme, the Emmanuel Presbyterian church shortly before his appearance in the downtown pulpit, Attorney Harry Brokaw discussed the benefits derived by the teaching of the Bible in the public schools at the outset of Rev. Mr. Davison's sermon in the morning.

"Salvation is ready now," averred the Rev. Mr. Davison in the evening service. "It has been ready for man's acceptance for ages now. Salvation is needed now by man, living in a world of sin to which he succumbs and from which he will not be rescued unless he accepts it now. Now is the day and the time for salvation. There is nothing to be added to salvation. It is a finished entity, a fully developed process."

"The more of sin that abounds the greater is the need of salvation. It is the paramount need of the world at the moment."

Church of God. The need for upright living plus a visitation of households in search of those who may be without the fold of the church was stressed by the Rev. Harry Rodgers of Cambridge at the Church of God, West Ninth street, yesterday morning. His subject was "Practical Christianity." He also preached last night.

"We are our brother's keeper and we contribute to their uplift by the examples which we give them by our own lives and by the concern which we show in their souls when, feeling they are not right with God, we go to them and attempt to have them see in His goodness the need for repentance which of necessity will lead to the further process of regeneration," he said.

The young people of the church were addressed by the pastor, the Rev. Mrs. Ethel Hoyt, of Michigan avenue. She spoke on "Think." She impressed her hearers with the notion that they should ever be in a condition of mind that they may appraise that which is right and wrong. "Many young persons are rushing headlong to destruction these days simply because they have not thought of the consequences of acts which to them at the moment may seem trivial or harmless," she said.

THAT mother was not too radical to create the baby. And God, who foresees everything, did not prevent its birth. She is able to take care of it. The father, or any other man, can not care for a child eight months old.

Radical opinions would not injure a baby of that age unless it were very precocious.

The husband suspects his wife of being a Socialist, but even that is not yet a felony.

If the baby should die, while the father and the judge are experimenting with it, the judge presumably, might feel foolish.

Somebody should read to him parts of the Constitution referring to freedom of thought and speech.

PRESIDENT HOOVER believes in economy that is real. He sells the presidential yacht Mayflower, instead of keeping more than two hundred officers and men, waiting for him to take an occasional trip, and burning thousands of tons of coal every year.

NOW, through Secretary Adams of the navy, he says, "No more American fleet in European waters."

The ships will return here or go where they are needed.

Europe knows we have ships and intend to have more of the right kind. No need to spend money advertising them.

OHIOAN KILLS WIFE AND SELF

CAMPBELL, O., Sept. 23.—(INS)—Jealousy was today believed by police to have been the motive of the double tragedy here when Frank Badyak, 42, shot his wife to death and then killed himself in sight of their three young children.

Mrs. Badyak, 41, who was shot in the head, was employed as a janitress in a steel mill office here. Her husband fatally wounded himself in firing a bullet into his left eye.

Local Officer Lauds This Herbal Discovery

To Really Appreciate What It Does in Constipation and Stomach Disorders, It Must Be Tried.

"Owa-ton-Na certainly is a fine medicine," says John Cole, well-known police officer of Wellsville, Ohio. He says: "For two years I have been suffering with constipation and most of the disorders which this condition brings on."

"I was troubled with frequent attacks of indigestion, gas and bloating spells. My appetite was very poor. At times I would get very dizzy and have frequent headaches. My system must have been full of poisons as at times my joints would ache and everyone knows how uncomfortable that is."

"I must say that Owa-ton-Na certainly made a big change in my condition and to appreciate what it really does, one must try it and it is certainly worth that to anyone who suffers with the conditions for which it is recommended."

"My appetite has improved 100% and I don't have to be afraid now that when I eat, I am going to have those sour, bloating spells of indigestion. Owa-ton-Na just seems to cleanse the system from top to bottom."

Owa-ton-Na is a non-alcoholic herbal preparation for kidney, liver, stomach and intestinal disorders. Sold in East Liverpool at Carnahan's, 114 E. 6th St. Store and East End Store, also at Carnahan's Store in Newell, W. Va.—adv.

NO SUPERIORS

No Job is Too Small or Too Large for Them To Tackle.

Do you know which stroke of a W, or an A, or a V to shade when drawing letters, or painting a sign? Do you know how to paint signs that will stand the test of water, steam, extreme heat or extreme cold? Do you know when a letter should be "capped" and when it should be in lower case? Do you know that different spacing is required between different combinations of letters in order to present a connected, harmonious appearance? Do you know Gothic from Old Roman? Do you know that lettering a sign for a beauty shop requires a technique different from that which might be used in painting a coal truck?

This is not an army intelligence questionnaire nor a sample of one of Thomas A. Edison's famous quizzes. It simply is designed to emphasize the fact that there is more to sign painting than the mere wielding of a brush. It requires more skill and knowledge than the ability to stick a brush into a pot of paint and slap it on a surface.

The doctor has his technique, the lawyer his; every man knows his own particular job; and perhaps it is needless to point out that the best place to get signs painted would be at a qualified sign shop.

If It's Your Move Let Andrews Do It

Give Him the Key. Tell Him Where to Haul Your Goods and be Certain of Getting Finest Service Possible.

You can "pack up your troubles" in your old kit bag and smile, smile, as the old song goes, but when it comes to packing up a whole household of furniture and carting it away somewhere else, perhaps out of the city, the task is not one which might cause any one to burst out in uproarious laughter.

It's a tremendous job—this moving of furniture—unless you go about it in the right way. And the right way to go about moving is not to have anything to do with it at all.

That sounds rather paradoxical; but the fact of the matter is it's a very sensible suggestion. Here's the idea. You've got to pay somebody to haul your moving wherever you're going. Why not, then, pay some reliable firm to handle the job from start to finish. Give them the key, let them pick it up for you, provide the transportation and then set it up again in the new location, thereby saving you the addition for a few gray hairs.

Vance Andrews can give you this kind of service. He's got the equipment, including a brand new truck he bought recently, equipped so that he can haul your load from one block to the next or from Maine to California. He has men experienced in their work. In fact he has everything which might be necessary.

They do the worrying—for which they are paid—and you can go about your duties the same as usual, with every little, if any, interruption in your regular schedule.

Or, if you want to store your goods, they'll attend to this for you in a thoroughly satisfactory sign shop.

Countless business houses in the East Liverpool district have reached this conclusion long ago and the Glenn Sign company has demonstrated to the extreme satisfaction of everyone concerned that they know their business, literally speaking, from "A to Z."

The Glenn Sign company does all kinds of lettering and sign painting, outside, inside, gold leaf work, everything in this particular line. Their work is visible throughout the city and adjacent territory.

Perhaps you need just a wee bit of a sign to tell the world that this is the office of "John J. Jones, Private," or a monstrous declaration on a 10-foot canvas billboard. Regardless of how large or how small, you can be certain that Glenn's will do it right and the job will last. Considering the fact that their charges are very reasonable, it is false economy to consider anything less satisfactory.

SPECIAL RATE ON GOOD COAL

Parsons Bros. Can Supply You With Splint.

Do you know that the Parsons Bros. Coal company is offering special prices on that famous West Virginia splint brand of coal during the present month?

If you haven't made yourself acquainted with the fact, get going right now and hop on while this bargain is hot!

You should have gotten your coal into your cellar this summer when fuel prices were at low ebb and when you could be sure of instantaneous service.

But if you haven't loaded up, in the name of economy, you certainly shouldn't pass up this chance to cash in on these special September rates offered by the Parsons Brothers.

And it's West Virginia splint, too. Call 'em up now, 558 or 1666-J, in selecting from their new assortments.

Fashionable wall paper and artistically designed paper can do wonders in creating a charming interior with a sense of individuality at a surprisingly moderate cost. Kinsey's assortment of wall paper, complete in every respect, reveals in a very striking manner, the new tendencies in color and designs that characterize the new fall offerings. Included are papers for every room in the home with borders to match.

There are fashions, you know, in wall paper just as there are in apparel and other things and the smart hostess of today sees to it that the decorations of her home are just as tasteful and up to the minute as are her own frocks.

If you need wall paper, call at Kinsey's.

Says "Orange Root" Rid Her of Choking Spells, Gas Pains

Mrs. Nannie K. Holland Wins Great Victory Over Dreadful Stomach Trouble Which Tortured Her for 10 Long Years and Almost Made an Invalid of Her — Everything She Eats Agrees With Her Now She Says.

Mrs. Nannie K. Holland of Columbia Avenue, Chester, near East Liverpool, Ohio, is just another happy woman today for she has won a great victory over a terrible case of stomach trouble which for 10 years almost proved her undoing. She gives all the credit to "ORANGE ROOT," the King of Tonics, in the following manner: "For 10 years I have been a victim of a severe case of stomach trouble, and never found a thing in all those years that did me a single bit of good, although I tried numerous remedies supposed to be helpful for my ailments. Gas pains would shoot all thru my stomach immediately after eating, and a times would cause dreadful smothering and choking spells, accompanied by intense and almost unbearable pains in the region of my heart. I could scarcely get my breath and my heart pounded so fast I could not even count the pulsations. I became nervous, and when almost a nervous wreck, and almost too weak and rundown to get about, heard about this great ORANGE ROOT, and immediately decided to give it a trial for so many of my friends had been restored to health thru its use. After taking only 3 bottles of it I CON-

$9,646 RUM FINES PAID

Probate Judge Riddle Reports Eight-Month Collection.

LISBON, O., Sept. 23.—Liquor law offenders have paid $9,646.36 in fines in the Columbiana county probate court during the first eight months of the year, Chief Deputy L. R. Riddle announced today.

APPEALS COURT MEETS NOV. 12

LISBON, O., Sept. 23.—Armistice day has been set as the opening date for the next term of the court of appeals in Columbiana county. It is probable that the court will not begin its session until Nov. 12.

The appellate court will sit in Portage and Mauch Chunk counties before it will convene in Lisbon.

ROGERS PLANS DAY OF JOY

Electric Lights in Use; Village Will Celebrate.

ROGERS, O., Sept. 23.—This Middleton township village now has electric lights. Electric toasters, washing machine and curlers are being placed in the homes for the first time, and because of this situation the villagers will celebrate Tuesday night. It was announced today by Mayor Harvey D. Cope.

It will be a two-fold celebration, marking, also, the improvement of the Rogers-Negley road which will be opened within two weeks.

Two years ago the village voted $5,000 bonds for light plant purposes. A public utility interest told the villagers it could furnish power and light at a cheaper rate than it could be made at Rogers.

County Treasurer Fred George collected the first special assessment on the bond issue. This money cannot be spent for any purpose. The budget sheet of Rogers does not show any money for the retirement of the bonds. And so, Rogers has some money to its credit that it cannot use.

Injunction Made Permanent.
LISBON, O., Sept. 23.—The temporary injunction asked for in the case of William H. Knepper against M. G. Martin and others has been made permanent by Judge W. F. Lones. Judgment has been entered against the defendants for the costs.

Police Launch War On Auto Speeders

Offenders Will be Notified First; Arrests Will Be Made Beginning Wednesday; School Children, Mill Men Menaced.

WELLSVILLE, O., Sept. 23.—Declaring that the rate of speed at which motorists travel over Wells avenue and Lisbon street is becoming a menace to the safety of school children at McKinley building and also to workmen going to and coming from their duties at the American Sheet and Tin Plate plant, Wells avenue, Mayor Wallace L. Fogo today announced the launching of a police campaign against "speedway tactics."

For the first few days offending drivers will be warned and released.

But, beginning Wednesday, arrests will be made, followed by fines, the executive said.

The "slow" sign erected on a telephone pole east of the mill in Wells avenue is designed to warn motorists as a general rule have failed to observe it.

THREE AUTOS IN ACCIDENTS

Six Motorists Escape With Nothing More Than Bruises.

WELLSVILLE, O., Sept. 23.—Six persons escaped with nothing more serious than bruises in a series of three automobile accidents here over the week-end.

Harold and Lester Armstrong, sons of Mr. and Mrs. Clem Armstrong of the Lisbon road, and two companions, were shaken up and slightly bruised when their car turned over in a ditch on the cinder road near the Baum greenhouses off the Lisbon road yesterday.

William Tice, of Salineville, escaped with scratches when his automobile upset yesterday in the Wellsville-Salineville road near Highlandtown.

Standard garage workers put both automobiles back on their wheels again and in each case they were driven off under their own power.

Car driven by Mrs. Marvel Holman collided with a westbound city street car in charge of Motorist Connelly and Davis Saturday night at 9:05 o'clock at the crossing west of Silver switch. No one was injured. Mrs. Holman, the only occupant, was not hurt.

Pottery City Week By Week

With Apologies to O. O. McIntyre

EAST LIVERPOOL churchmen will be interested in the fact that Bishop John W. Hamilton of Washington, D. C., now 85 years old and retired, has found strength to go to Europe.

He will be remembered as one of the two bishops who was in East Liverpool during the celebration of the hundredth anniversary of the First Methodist church two years ago.

During the conference last week in Cambridge, Ohio, he was given an enthusiastic greeting as he told of his European trip, one of many that he has made in his lifetime.

SOME time before that he made an unexpected visit to his birth place, six miles west of New Matamoras, Ohio. The place is known as Old Camp Run. Not for nearly 70 years had he been to the spot though he has been in many sections of the world in the interim.

Part of the old log house in which he and his brother, another bishop who headed the Methodist area in Pittsburgh, until his death some years ago, were born, is still standing. With those accompanying him he stood before its ruins and had his picture taken.

When he retired from active work his headquarters were in Washington, D. C., where he still lives.

IN the course of his other ministerial activities, it has become one of the duties of a former East Liverpool pastor to visit the annex of the Ohio penitentiary and administer spiritual solace to a condemned slayer. The latter is none other than Dr. James Howard Snook whose killing of the Ohio State university co-ed shocked the country. His pastor, or at that of his wife, is the Rev. Dr. Isaac Miller, formerly of the First Methodist Episcopal church here. He, Mrs. Snook and the former professor's attorneys are the only visitors the doomed man had seen since entering "death row."

CLEVELAND, Sept. 23.—Coach Gordon Locke has been spending the greater part of his time in perfecting Western Reserve's defense against a passing attack, and more strenuous drills along this line are scheduled for this week. Coach Locke has been using the freshmen teams as the opposition of the varsity in the past week's practice sessions. The Redcats open the season here next Saturday with Kenyon as their opponent.
